EDITORIAL

Fortunately for the coin collector, the persons whose names occupy the most space in the pages of history have left behind them imperishable relics in the nature of metal currency. It is indeed possible for the collector to own coins relating to all important periods of history. It is for such persons that we have prepared this publication. We have tried to avoid listing coins of great rarity. Such pieces are beyond the reach of the average collector, and besides they are often of little historical importance. In selecting the pieces that are advertised we have attempted to give the historical background associated with the issue.

This is the fourth edition of COIN TOPICS. The previous issues printed in larger size, were enthusiastically received by thousands of collectors. In consequence, we have been able to produce a more convenient, though more costly, type of magazine. In fairness to our regular customers, we will shortly reduce our overhead by omitting the names of disinterested collectors. We assume that COIN TOPICS does not interest those who have not responded to previous issues. Regular subscribers to the COIN COLLECTOR'S JOURNAL will continue to receive all issues of COIN TOPICS.

CONDITIONS OF SALE

Each piece is guaranteed genuine. We have been careful not to over-rate the condition of any coin. In instances where we have on hand only one or two pieces of the coins listed, the orders first received are filled. We cannot guarantee to supply others at the same price.

The condition of a coin is expressed as follows:

M=MINT—A new coin never in circulation.

V.F.=VERY FINE—From circulation but no signs of wear.

F=FINE. Slightest sign of wear but still an attractive piece.

V.G.=VERY GOOD—Somewhat worn but still desirable.

G=GOOD—Worn but type all clear.

WE PAY POSTAGE

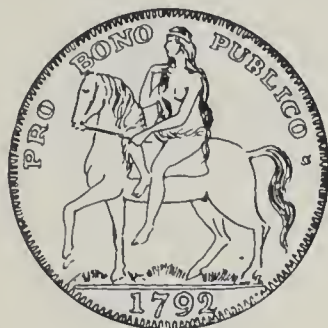

All coins and books bought from us are sent post free to any point in the United States. All orders are filled, as far as possible on the day of receipt.

TERMS

Net cash in advance. We prefer to receive stamps in payment of orders for a dollar or less. Any items found unsatisfactory may be returned within five days. Make all remittances by bank check, postal or express order payable to Wayte Raymond, Inc. Do not send coin or currency by unregistered mail.

Half Penny Token of England Showing Lady Godiva

Of the various tokens issued in England during the 18th century none is more interesting than the Lady Godiva or Coventry half-penny. The Lady Godiva legend dates back to the 12th century. She was the beautiful wife of Leofric, Earl of Mercia and Lord of Coventry. The people of Coventry suffered grievously from the earl's oppressive taxation and Lady Godiva pleaded with him to reduce their burden. At first he would not listen to her plea, but at last he wearied of her entreaties and said he would grant her request if she would ride naked through the streets of the town. Lady Godiva called his bluff, removed her clothes, let down her long hair and perched herself side-saddle on a horse. Before the trip, however, she issued a proclamation that all persons were to keep indoors, and under no circumstances were they to look in her direction. The curiosity of one citizen, a tailor by trade, got the better of him and by boring a hole in the shutter he earned for himself the title of Peeping Tom. According to the legend he was struck blind for peeping but in many quarters this is believed to be untrue.

Lady Godiva's husband kept his word and abolished the obnoxious taxes.

There are about 50 varieties of these tokens, all the same size and dated between 1792 and 1795. We have a few in stock, in Very Fine condition.

A Commemorative Coin of Germany Struck in Aluminum

Among the unusual coins that appeared in the aftermath of the World's War is a 3 mark aluminum piece of Germany. It was issued to commemorate the third anniversary of the Weimar Constitution. The obverse bears the inscription VERFASSUNGSTAG, (Constitution Day) 11 August 1922. The design was made by the famous sculptor, Professor Quackerie, of Munich. This is the only instance, known to us, when a regular government commemorative issue has been in alumnium.

Mint Condition 25 Cents each.

Lead Coins of China

Among the curious coins that have come to our notice in recent years are the lead issues of early China. Such coins have been seldom mentioned in literature on Chinese coins, although it is generally acknowledged that the Chinese have on occasions used a lead currency. We have a number of the pieces that are duplicates from the famous Mouquette collection at the museum in Java. Issued during the Northern Sung Dynasty between 960 to 1126 A. D. Quite decently preserved and coins that are rarely offered for sale.

Price 35 cents each.

Bronze Coins of The Commonwealth of Australia

The first regular issue of bronze coins for Australia were pennies and halfpennies dated 1911. From this year to 1916 they were issued from either the Royal mint at London or from the mint of Ralph Heaton and Sons, of Birmingham, England. The coins issued from the latter mint can be distinguished by a small "H" mint mark above the date. Those from the Royal Mint have no mint mark. In 1916, owing to the pressure of work at the Royal Mint, the coins for Australia were made at the branch mints. In consequence we find the mint mark "M" of Melbourne and the "I" mint mark of the Calcutta mint in India, on the coins until 1919. In that year arrangements were made to strike all the Australian coins at the Sydney and Melbourne branch mints, and the mint mark was omitted from the bronze coins.

We have a fairly complete stock of the various dates and mint marks. All are in bright mint condition.

Glass Coins of Egypt

During the 11th and 12th centuries coins of glass were used by the Egyptians. Some numismatists are inclined to believe that these curious round pieces of glass were used as weights rather than as coins. However, as it is difficult to find two of the same weight, such conclusions seem to be far-fetched.

In size the coins range from a half-inch to over an inch in diameter. They come in various colors with many interesting combinations and brilliant hues. We have purchased a small find of these coins and can offer them at a reasonable price. Each piece is in perfect condition.

Silver Coins of Trebizond, a Long Forgotten Empire

Trebizond, remotely situated near the Black Sea in the northeastern corner of Asia Minor, has been the scene of many tumultuous conflicts. It was a flourishing city in the time of Xenophon. Mithradates the Great, king of Pontus, took it from the Romans. It later became a free city, and the Roman emperor Trajan made it the capital of Cappadocia.

After the capture of Constantinople by the Crusaders, Alexis Comnenus the Great, son of Manuel Comnenus, founded the Greek empire of Trebizond which lasted for the brief period from 1204 to 1461.

The only tangible evidence remaining today of this small but once flourishing empire is a few issues of coins. The standard was the asper, a silver coin the same size as is shown in the above illustration. The types are very similar, showing the standing emperor on the obverse and St. Eugenius the patron saint of Trebizond on the reverse.

We have a fine selection of these interesting coins at the following prices:

- John I. Comnenus, 1235-1238....75 cents
- Manuel I. Comnenus, 1238-126375 cents
- John II, Comnenus, 1280-1297.... 1.25

Bullet Money of Siam

These curiously shaped pieces of silver were once used as money in Siam. It is not certain why or when they were first used, as all the official records of Siam were destroyed in 1767 when the Burmese sacked the city of Ayudhya.

They were last coined in the fourth reign of the Bangkok Dynasty, by King Mongkut, 1851-1868. We have the following pieces for sale. Issued by various rulers:

A Commemorative Crown of New Zealand in Proof

This crown, dated 1935 was struck to commemorate the Treaty of Waitangi which took place in 1840 and which brought the Islands under British rule. The obverse shows the bust of King George V. and the reverse depicts a Maori Chief and the first governor, Captain Hobson, shaking hands. It is one of the most striking of modern coins. We have a few specimens in proof condition at $3.25 each.

The Seven Sleepers of Ephesus

An old legend popular in many languages tells of the seven Christian youths of Ephesus, who, in the Decian period of persecution, A. D. 250, hid themselves in a cave. Their hiding place was discovered and its entrance blocked. The martyrs fell asleep and were not awakened until 200 years later when a herdsman discovered the cave.

One of the young men, Jamblicus by name, left the cave to buy food. He was surprised to see the cross displayed over the city gates and entering the city, to hear the name of Christ pronounced.

Entering a baker's shop he offered a coin of the time of Trajan Decius, and was arrested as a dishonest finder of hidden treasure. He told his accusers how he and his companions entered the cave two centuries before, and to prove it he led them to the cave.

The emperor Theodosius II, hearing what had happened, hastened to the spot in time to hear from their lips the miracle that had been wrought. It was told to him by the youths who immediately fell into everlasting sleep.

The theme of this story has been interwoven into the legends of many countries. Particularly it is a favorite subject in early mediaeval art. You can accept it, as you probably will, "cum grano salis." Anyway it's a good story. We offer you a silver denraius, in fine condition, of Trajanus Decius who ruled Rome from A. D. 249-251, for 75 cents.

An Early Chinese Bank Note

The note illustrated was issued by the first Ming Emperor, T'ai-Tsu, whose reign title was Hung-wu, between 1368 and 1399 A. D. It is about nine by thirteen inches in size and printed on a dark gray paper made of mulberry bark. Its value is represented by an illustration of ten strings of cash in the center of the note indicating that it is equal to 1,000 cash. The accompanying Chinese inscription, when translated reads, "Great Ming General Circulation Treasury Note, to be current under the heavens." At the bottom of the note is the curt warning that "counterfeiters will be decapitated."

We have in stock a remarkably well preserved specimen of this issue. Guaranteed genuine and of considerable rarity. A museum specimen.

Lead Pitis of Sumatra and Java, Smallest Denomination ever Issued

A question often asked by those interested in numismatics is, "what is the smallest denomination ever issued?" We can answer this question, but only after reading the results of the researches of H. C. Millies, that were published in 1871 under the title of "Les Monnaies des Indigenes" de "L'archipel Indien et de la Peninsule Malaie."

Monsieur Millies describes small lead coins known as "pitis" that were used in Sumatra and Java about 150 years ago. The coins are as thin as paper and so delicate it is surprising that specimens are still extant. At the time they circulated it took 1500 to equal one cent. Because of the rarity of these Pitis and because of their obscure origin they have been but rarely offered to collectors. Those who are interested in curious numismatic items certainly ought to have one of these small denominations in their collections. Each coin fully attributed in an envelope. Very fine condition.

Ancient Money Weights of Siam and Cambodia

Our representative in Northern Siam has sent us a small lot of these curious weights. Most of them are in the shape of miniature elephants. The one illustrated weighs two ounces. In the past these weights were used by merchants and money changers to test the weight of the coins that passed through their hands. Each is stamped with a small mark, guaranteeing its exactness and indicating that it was issued by the proper authorities. We believe this to be the first time these weights have been offered to collectors in America. They are very rare and guaranteed genuine.

The Zoological Coins of The Irish Free State

Few countries have as distinctive a coinage as the Irish Free State. The coins, handsomely struck, show animals or birds for which Ireland is noted. The first issue of these coins took place in 1928. They replaced the English coins that were then in circulation. The penny, half-penny and quarter-penny are of bronze. The sixpence and threepence of nickel.

Recent Coins of Fiji

One of the most recent British colonies to have its own coinage is Fiji. This group of over 200 islands, about 80 of which are inhabited, lying in the South Pacific, can proudly claim the distinction of having the second real coinage of Polynesia. The first coinage was that of the Hawaiian Islands.

The coins, as illustrated, include the silver florin or two shilling piece, the shilling and sixpence. The minor coins, the penny and half penny are in chrome nickel. The set of five pieces, Mint condition and mounted in EASY DISPLAY blocks.

Coins of New Zealand

Of all the British colonies, New Zealand has probably the most distinctive set of coins. They were first issued from the Royal Mint in London, England, in 1933.

The various denominations are described as follows: (The obverses of all are alike).

Half Crown. Obv. Crowned and robed bust of the King. R/. The crowned arms of New Zealand.

Florin. R/. The Kiwi bird.

Shilling. R/. A crouching Maori warrior holding spear.

Sixpence. R/. The female Kookaburra or Huia-bird to right.

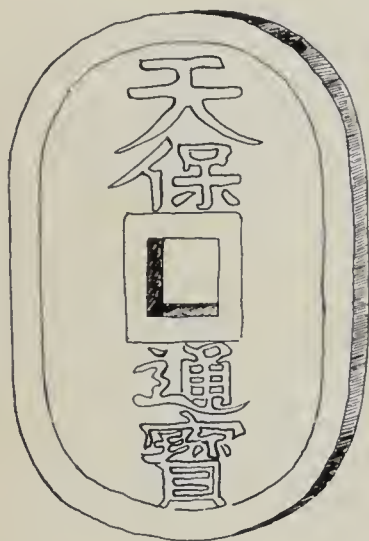

Threepence. R/. Elaborate crossed war clubs.

The Tempo, a Curious but Common Coin of Japan

These coins were first used during the reign of Emperor Ninko Tenno in the year 1835. The right name for them is Tobyaku meaning "equal to 100 cash." At first the coinage was rather limited but within a few years nearly 500,000,000 were coined. Although there are a few rare types, the coinage of the one illustrated lasted as late as 1860. They weigh about two-thirds of an ounce.

Coins of the Crusaders

The word "crusade" is derived from the cross that was worn as a badge by Christians who, in the 11th and 12th centuries, conducted a series of wars to drive the Mahomedans from the Holy Land.

The story of the crusades abounds in romantic and picturesque detail, bitter intolerance and bloodshed. All classes of people from all parts of Europe joined the cause, their hate fanned into flame by the impassioned appeals of the propagandists. For two centuries a bitter and fantastic campaign was carried on. It left us a quite insane intolerance between the two great systems of religion that is noticeable even today.

The Mahomedans, or infidels as they were called, were driven from many of the important cities. The land was parcelled out among the adventurers and for a while the more fortunate ones had their brief moment of glory. Among the more important kingdoms established were those at Antioch, Athens and Jerusalem. The coins that the crusaders struck are among the few imperishable relics of this great movement. Like most coins of the middle ages, they are crude. The chief characteristic is a cross, the official badge of the issuers. Our stock includes a wide selection of these coins. To those collectors who wish to form a historical collection we offer the following inexpensive pieces struck by the Crusaders.

Denier of the Princes of Antioch,
12th Century—45 cents.

Denier of the Dukes of Athens,
13th Century—75 cents.

Denier of the Kings of Jerusalem,

Guide and Price List to Ancient Coins

Greek, Roman, and Byzantine

This new publication illustrates in beautiful half-tones more than 250 ancient coins. All the coins illustrated are fairly easy to obtain, and although they are not all to be purchased at a moderate price, the value in no case is excessive.

The handbooks or guides published by many of the great museums in the world usually lay particular stress on and illustrate the great rarities in their collections, few of which are ever obtainable by the average collector. While we could have illustrated other coins of interest we feel that the pieces chosen are representative and would form a real background for a collection of importance.

The first twelve pages of the Guide are devoted to Greek and Egyptian coinages. Next in order come the coins of the Roman Republic, Imperial Rome, and the late Roman Empire. Gold coins of the late Roman and Byzantine Empires are included, but are treated separately. Short treatises have been written on the various coinages including the different Roman denominations and mints. The prices given are those at which most of the coins may be obtained.

Printed on fine quality smooth paper. Octavo Size. 28 pp. Paper covers.
